AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has demonstrated its power of cure for all diseases of the blood.

The Harpooner's Story.

New Bedford, June 7, 1883.

DR. J. C. AYER & Co.—Twenty years ago I was a harpooner in the North Pacific, when five others of the crew and myself were laid up with scurvy. Our bodies were bloated, gums swollen and bleeding, teeth loose, purple blotches all over us, and our breath seemed rotten. Take it by and large we were pretty badly off. All our lime-juice was accidentally destroyed, but the captain had a couple dozen bottles of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA and gave us that. We recovered on it quicker than I have ever seen men brought about by any other treatment for scurvy, and I've seen a good deal of it. Seeing no mention in your Almanac of your Sarsaparilla being good for scurvy, I thought you ought to know of this, and so send you the facts.
Respectfully yours, RALPH Y. WINGATE.

The Trooper's Experience.

Masren, Basutoland (S. Africa), March 7, 1883.

DR. J. C. AYER & CO.—Gentlemen: I have much pleasure to testify to the great value of your Sarsaparilla. We have been stationed here for over two years, during which time we had to live in tents. Being under canvas for [illegible] country, [illegible] some time. I was advised to take your Sarsaparilla, two bottles of which made my sores disappear rapidly, and I am now quite well.
Yours truly, T. K. BODEN,
Trooper, Cape Mounted Riflemen.

BLACK EYES AND BLUE CHINA.

[Translated from the Bostonese.]

Her eye-glass sparkles like a star,
Her bangs caress the passing breeze;
Her cultured fancy roams afar
In search of something Japanese.
With rose and lily duly draught,
Her girlish cheeks are fair to view;
Her mind is the inquiring sort,
Her blood and china deeply blue.
With learned skill and antique rage,
She reads the secrets quaintly hid
Beneath the gathered dust of age
On obeli-k and pyramid.
When I prepare to write at ease,
Beguiling thoughts of her ari-e;
Her fairy footprints cross my t's,
Her fleeting dimples dot my i's.
With such bewitching eyes of jet
And parted lips that strangely please,
She well would suit my cabinet,
As something from the Bostonese.

REFORMING THE POLICE.

Roller Skates To Be Worn While on Duty —A Prominent Chemist's Suggestion.

[New York Times.]

It has recently been proposed that the police should be provided with roller skates, to be worn when on duty. The advocates of this scheme maintain that a policeman could skate over the sidewalk much faster than a burglar or cashier could run, and could thus easily overtake a flying criminal. Also, the skating policeman who should notice a fight in progress a block or two from him could arrive on the scene in time to prevent a murder and to make an arrest.

Of course if the policemen were mounted on skates they would be treated as mounted troops and instructed in the calvary drill. A charge by a platoon of skating policemen would be an imposing sight, but it might not strike terror into a mob. All the latter would have to do would be to throw a few sticks on the pavement in front of the advancing column in order to enjoy the pleasing spectacle of a whole platoon of policemen suddenly standing on their heads. The gutters would also constitute an insuperable obstacle to rapid movement on skates, for no policeman could cross a street without coming to a full halt and carefully picking his way over the gutters. As to the claim that a skating policeman would arrive rapidly at the scene of a street fight, it is based upon a total misunderstanding of the nature of a patrolman's duties. He is not expected to assist in creating disorder by mixing himself up in a street fight, but to wait until the fight is over, and then to arrest any helpless survivor who has been stabbed, shot or beaten.

The roller skate suggestion is vastly inferior in merit to that more recently made by a prominent chemist. This truly able man proposes to supply the force with India rubber waistcoats, filled with hydrogen gas. A policeman thus equipped would, to a certain extent triumph over the law of gravity. He would be so light that he could run with amazing swiftness. His progress while running would be a series of bounds. He would strike the pavement, say three times only while running the length of an ordinary block, and each time the rebound would carry him at least fifty feet forward, at an average height of six feet above the ground. No runaway criminal could possibly escape an officer thus equipped, and the patrolman would find the duty of walking over his beat so easy that he would never be compelled to lean against a lamp-post or to rest himself on a doorstep. In case he was wanted to enter a house, the door of which should be locked, he could readily leap from the pavement into a second-story window; in case of charging a mob, a platoon of policemen would spring into the air and descend on the heads of the mob with a force that would be irresistible.

Children of Royalty.

[Cardiff Mail.]

Prince Albert Victor is a big baby, hardly yet weaned from hoops and marbles; he is petulant, simple, fond of tricks, and possesses no tact. His brother could buy and sell him. The three princesses are infants still; they sleep in a common bed-room, which is plainly furnished; they like stories and fairy tales, and a day's shopping is their delight. They have been splendidly brought up, and are the precious stones in the mother's crown.

The princess of Wales is the idol of England; she has no enemies, and "only one friend, Miss Knollys." Her features lack expression; she has the secret not to grow old, and, though dressing well, spoils herself by her attachment to collerettes. She, unlike her mother, detests politics, and is more interested in a new dress than in all the bills of parliament. She never speaks badly of any person. The duke of Edinburgh was born with an oar in one hand and a fiddle in the other; he loves his grog like an old salt; is not a lady's man, like the prince of Wales, nor takes after him in dress. He acts on the motto that "good accounts make good friends."

Old English Drinks.

[Detroit Free Press.]

The drink called "posset," mentioned often by the early English writers, was composed simply of hot milk curdled by some strong infusion. This drink was held as a great luxury and found use both as a drink and a medicine. The "posset" was sometimes curdled with sack and was especially prepared for bridegrooms. Macbeth alludes to the custom of preparing "posset," when, speaking of the king's guards, he says, "I have drugged their possets." Another favorite drink of the common people was called "lamb's wool." It consisted of ale and roasted apples worked to a smooth mixture. Wine used at weddings was often flavored by placing "sops," the flowers now known as pinks, into it.

A War Correspondent's Opinion.

[Exchange.]

In the course of a magazine article on Gen. Wolseley, Archibald Forbes says that in the last thirty years there have been only two "heaven born soldiers"—Stonewall Jackson and Skobeleff; Sheridan and Prince Frederick Charles have approximated to the character. Among "exceptionally able soldiers" he names Lee, Grant and Sherman. To the "born soldiers" might be added Gen. Albert Sydney Johnson and Gen. McPherson, who were both prematurely cut off without opportunities for fulfilling their great promise.

Pope: Fame never made us lie down contentedly on a death-bed.

Secret of Josh Billings' Success.

[Denver Tribune Interview.]

"What is the secret of my success? I can attribute it to only one thing. When I think of a story that I think is good, I write it down, and add nothing to it. If it's a good shot it hits the mark, if it misses, no harm is done. Some men say a good idea and then spoil it by adding something to it. They try to make it more forcible—embellish it. That's wrong. Almost any writer can take a good idea and make a column, but there are few writers who can take a column and reduce it to an idea. A man can say a great deal in three lines; then what's the use of more? The other day in New York an admirer asked me what I owed my success to and I told him brevity. He wanted me to give my definition of the word brevity. I replied that brevity was the long and short of it. He seemed astonished at the truth of it. But that's what brevity means, and I couldn't have given him a better idea of it if I had used a column of words."

Mr. Shaw does his writing whenever opportunity offers. He always carries with him a number of slips of blank paper, and whenever or wherever he is, when he has a new, crisp idea, he jots it down. Then at his leasure he reads these slips over, culls from them what he considers the best, and destroys the rest. He says that if, on the second reading, he has any doubts as to the originality or the correctness of the proverb he destroys the slip and that settles it.

Spears of the Hadendowas.

[Soudan Letter.]

The Hadendowa spear is from six to seven feet long. The handle is of a piece of hard mimosa or acacia, thinner than a broom-handle. There is a long socket attached to the blade, into which the wood is driven and fastened. At the reverse end there is commonly a piece of twisted iron or telegraph wire, which serves the double purpose of weighting the handle, so as to counterbalance the blade, and to prevent the weapon being pulled from the grasp. The spear-head or blade is rarely more than two inches broad by eight inches long. Going into battle the Hadendowas grease their spears from blade to hilt, so that it is impossible to wrest the weapons from their hands in a struggle. The spears used by the tribes up the Nile are much more formidable weapons. The handle is from seven feet to nine feet long, made of male bamboo wood. It is furnished with a terrible broad-bladed long spear-head, like that of the Hadendowas, kept bright as a mirror and sharp as a razor.

The blades are sometimes fourteen inches long and five inches wide. In truth, an Arab spear up the Nile looks more like an elongated trowel-blade than anything else. Shovel-heads our soldiers used to call them. They make a fearful wound, and it was with one of these Col. Burnaby was struck in the throat and killed. Being exceedingly light weapons, although badly balanced, the Arabs can handle them with great dexterity.

The Teeth of the Ameer.

[New York Herald.]

If the ameer of Afghanistan had received Lord Dufferin warmly at Rawal Pindi, England would to-day be at war with Russia. But the ameer did not receive Lord Dufferin warmly. On the contrary, he received the viceroy very grumpily.

The Allahabad Pioneer thus explains his coldness:

"Mr. Miller, of Calcutta, has removed certain badly conducted teeth with a view to make room for a colony of more quiet settlers in Abdurrahman's mouth. The result is that both eating and speaking are at present a difficulty to him."

Every possible method was sought to relieve him. His bungalow was lined with crimson satin. Musical boxes played gay tunes. Even the wine decanters when touched burst into melody. All the courtiers brought remedies. Hookahbearers, tailors, chess-players, cooks, deaf and dumb painters employed their arts to divert their master. Butchers killed sheep and chickens all day long to tempt his appetite with the daintiest parts.

Yet his teeth ached, and he received Lord Dufferin grumpily. And Lord Dufferin, telegraphing to his government, said that they could not count on the ameer, and had better make terms with Russia.

So dentistry saved the world from war.

Gatling Guns.

[Chicago Journal.]

The Gatling gun weighs about 1,500 pounds and is precisely of the same design as the ordinary cannon. There are ten chambers that revolve in the barrel proper, and each chamber has an independent lock. The main barrel is eighteen inches in diameter. The size of cartridge used is that of the ordinary .45 government rifle caliber. Each feed drum contains 200 rounds. The firing is done by operating a crank; the cartridge is exploded by a hammer which works with such great rapidity that 120 cartridges are fired in a minute. The movement of the gun can be so adjusted as to make it either stationary or oscillating so that the gun practice can become either scattered or centrifugal in its execution.

At 400 yards the Gatling gun has been known to hit a 12x15 feet target 396 times out of 400 shots. At 1,200 yards, 413 out of 500 shots have struck a 9x15 feet target. To show the rapidity with which the gun can be worked, it might be explained that the time occupied in coming to action front from trot and firing is ten seconds; limber rear, mount and off, thirteen seconds.

Turning His Knowledge to Account.

[New York Sun.]

Hostess—Are you a musician, Mr. Sissy?

Mr. Sissy (who is dying to give an exhibition of his ability)—Well—er—yes, I think I can lay claim to some knowledge of music.

Hostess—I am delighted to know it. My daughter is about to play, and I would be very glad if you would kindly turn the music for her.

A Fortune in Store.

[Troy Press.]

There is a fortune in store for the milliner who shall devise a bonnet that can be worn in any part of a church and always present its trimmed side to the congregation.

MARKET DAY IN BOGOTA.

A Continuous Stream of Sweets and Fruits—Oddities of Indian Production.

[Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Bogota has a daily market in the Plaza of San Francisco. It is, however, small, and resorted to mainly to supply accidental deficiencies and unforseen wants. The great market day of Bogota is Friday, though the market really opens on Thursday in the principal plaza. On Friday the whole square is covered with sellers and their merchandise.

Here there is a stream of sirup, panela, yellowish loaf-sugar, fruits, etc, flowing toward Bogota, along the great macadamized road, in bull-carts, and on the backs of men and beasts. Here an unfortunate descendant of the warlike Pandhes, that climbed up the steep height on Thursday night, sat all day on Wednesday in the market of Facatativa, is taking his weary way, with his unsold back-load, twenty-eight miles more, and to morrow he hopes to sell his load and start home.

On the left hand, as we look toward Bolivar's statue, are some Indian productions, made of cotton, wool, and the fiber of a kind of century-plant. We advance toward the center a rod or two, and turn up in front of the center of the cathedral. On our left are the sugar and salt; on the right esculent roots and other vegetables; hens in eel-pot cages, eggs tied in two and two, earthenware and fish. Here is a collection: A turkey tied by one leg to a peg driven into the pavement; a pig similarly moored, and a babe almost naked. Advancing, we find fruits on both hands till you come near the Alto ano and turn south. Here you fall in with sellers of imported goods, cloths and calicoes. There are one or two tents or boxes with a roof. "The occupant of one, seeing me busy with my pencil, desires me to record that he has gold-dust for sale, which I have done." Here are cylinders of matting five inches wide; those who sell it put it down and sew it. As we approach the south end we come to the meat department, and turn down between meat and dry goods. Then on our right comes the green grocery again till we approach the Casa de Portales, where we found cordage and native manufactures of wood, cotton, wool and other fibers that we noticed on entering.

I went to market once for string, and, as I had no other opportunity for making practical experiments, I made the most of this. The first time the price asked was more than I had been told to give. I accordingly went off without making my purchase, after having offered what I had been told was proper. One of the girls took the balls of string and followed me all over the market, where I must have spent more than a half an hour. It was some time before I discovered her, and she was not aware of my discovery. She seemed to wait for me to apply to another for the same article, but I did not, and at length left to go home. Still the poor indianita followed me some rods beyond the plaza, when, finding me really going, she offered her balls at the usual price, and received her pay.

The Cemeteries of Genoa.

[Cor. Chicago Times.]

It is the custom in these countries, often to place photographs of the people at the graves, and in many instances the marble faces I saw were the same as the picture—some handsome, some plain, some ugly, but all human and real, and nothing idealized. The clothing, too, was perfect—collars, cuffs, hats, neckties and patterns of gentlemen's clothes and ladies' silk or brocade dresses being given in perfection. Thus the styles of the day are preserved, and I, careless observer, saw articles of wearing apparel the fashion of which dates far back in the past.

Two groups I saw here rise distinctly before my mind still: An advocate in his full court dress, life-size, standing in a commanding position, ready to speak, while his wife stood by the pedestal weeping, bearing on her head a veil just like the black Spanish veil worn here a great deal instead of a bonnet; the other, a young girl on a bed, Christ, life-size, standing by her, and below the friends kneeling and weeping. I suppose there are at least 200 like these. Each is elaborate and interesting in its way. Everywhere we went the air was perfumed with shrubs, which are cultivated here instead of flowers. In the open ground each grave is marked with a cross for a headstone, and all the crosses face in the same direction, giving singular uniformity in appearance. The effect of the whole scene was most quiet and beautiful.

The Barcelona Policemen.

[New York Telegram.]

Each police officer in Barcelona is provided with a revolver and a set of skeleton keys with which he can obtain access to any house in the city. He carries also a kind of spear, and it is a quaint sight to see an officer thus equipped walking about the streets singing at the top of his voice, which he does every quarter of an hour all through the night, to announce to the good people of Barcelona what time it is, and also what kind of weather it is, making it clear that the custom is a relic of times gone by, when clock and barometer were unknown.

The Tiger and the Peasant.

[Detroit Free Press.]

A Tiger suddenly Appeared before a Peasant one day, and asked for a Certificate of Character, Explaining that he Desired it to help him better his Fortunes.

"But what can I say Good of you?" Protested the Peasant.

"Why, man, I've had a dozen Chances to Down your whole Family, but have never even Bitten one!"

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

R. M. GRANICE ..... EDITOR

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1885.

THE "San Joaquin Valley Argus," published at Merced, has entered upon a new volume. This paper is one of the oldest in the southern part of the State. It is edited and published by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Steele, who for nearly a quarter of a century have been in the newspaper business in Merced county. The press they now print their paper on was brought to this State early in the fifties and has been in their possession nearly twenty-five years. The "Argus" for two decades has been a terror to a corrupt clique of politicians in Merced county and for years it unceasingly labored to get the management of the affairs of that county in honest hands. At the last election it had the proud satisfaction of seeing the backbone broken of one of the most corrupt, unscrupulous and depraved Court House cliques that ever held sway in this State. It was this gang that made the boast fifteen years ago that they would crush out the "Argus" in three months. But the paper still lives and flourishes, while many of its old time enemies are groveling at its feet.

SATURDAY evening as W. A. Newcum, editor of the "Solano Republican," was walking on the street at Suisun, he was stopped by a man named Charles Coffran. After exchanging a few words in regard to a personal item that had been published in the "Republican," Coffran drew a pistol and began firing at Newcum. After the second shot had been fired Newcum drew his pistol, fired one shot and snapped three times and then ran across the street. Coffran fired one more shot and was then arrested. Neither were hurt, but more trouble is expected.

THE Sheriff of Sweetwater county, Wyoming Territory, has arrested twenty-two of the supposed leaders in the Rock Springs riot, including Isaiah Whitehouse, a member-elect to the Legislature. The charges against the prisoners are murder, arson, rioting and robbery. It is estimated that the number killed will be about fifty, including several that died of their wounds in the surrounding hills. All the Chinamen at work in the Alma coal mines near Evanston, numbering 400, have been taken to the latter place under an escort of United States troops.

THE insurance companies which intended withdrawing from the Coast Association and from the compact by which certain rates are to be upheld, have concluded to remain in that organization. Their notices of retirement caused the association to reduce some rates 20 per cent. The former compact rates had resulted in a decrease of business for the insurance companies.

SONOMA county numbers among its journalists a Baer, a Sparrow, an Eagle and a Crow. The Baer stands guard over and the Sparrow chirps for the Cloverdale "Reveille," while the Eagle and Crow perch on the banners of the "Flag" and "Enterprise" respectively in the town of Healdsburg.

A POOR, half-witted rag man, known by the sobriquet of "Soupbone," who formerly resided in St. Helena, and whose familiar cry of "any old rags, bottles and bags" is familiar to many over that way, has fallen heir by the death of a relative in England, to a fortune of $10,000,000.

A MODEST man is Fisher Ames. He sues M. H. DeYoung for $50,000 damages as compensation for the injury his reputation has suffered by an article which appeared in the "Chronicle" last fall. Fisher is evidently gauging the amount of his damages by the length of Mike's purse.

A YOUNG man named George Nisson died in Petaluma on the 4th inst., from the effects of drinking ice water when over-heated. This is one of many deaths that have occurred in this State the past summer from similar causes.

ALL the cattle have been removed from Indian Territory, in conformity with Cleveland's proclamation.

SHOULD BE REPEALED.

The law making it a penalty to kill quail during certain months in the year should be repealed in so far as Sonoma and other grape-producing counties are concerned. These voracious birds commit fearful inroads on vineyards, which they invade in enormous flocks. They commence their depredations on the earlier varieties of grapes and never let up till the last grape is picked. In one instance in this valley, we have it on good authority, that quail have eaten and rendered unfit for market, grapes of the value of between $200 and $300 on a twenty-acre vineyard in the past three years. Of course all the vineyards have not suffered from this cause to the extent mentioned above, but all in a lesser or greater degree have been raided by these birds.

The vineyardist has enough to contend with in the way of late frosts, scorching suns and the low price of grapes, without being subject to the quail nuisance. The first two misfortunes it is impossible to control; the third may be remedied by close attention to the principles of supply and demand, but as regards the fourth, the evil can easily be counteracted by repealing the law for the preservation of the thieving bird. This law was framed and passed to afford amusement to the members of the Sportsman's Club of San Francisco and other nimrods in that city. It is clearly an unjust law and has no advantages whatever for the man on whose land the quail increase, thrive and fatten. It is just the reverse. The men who, for the most part, enjoy its provisions are those who never owned an acre of land in the country and who periodically make incursions into the interior valleys in quest of game, and in their endeavors to bag the same tramp down growing crops and inflict more or less damage to fences, etc.

In view of the facts mentioned above, the law protecting quail in certain localities ought to be repealed at the next session of the Legislature. To be sure a kick will be made by the State Sportsmans' Association and its satellites. They will tell us that the law must stand, else quail will be exterminated in this State. But when it is understood that every one of these birds destroy at least 50 cents worth of grapes in certain sections before it gets into the city nimrod's game bag or the capacious pockets of his shooting jacket, we cannot conceive how our law-makers can conscienciously refuse to repeal the law in so far as certain counties are concerned, if they be petitioned to do so.

WINE AT THE TABLE.

The surest way to build up a market for California wine is to make it an article of common consumption at home. The wine-drinker is just as much entitled to wine at our hotels and restaurants as the coffee-drinker is to coffee. The wine-drinkers should insist upon their rights. The proprietors do not withold wine on temperance principles, but simply to help business at the bar. But yet we believe that it would pay all hotel and restaurant keepers to put wine on their tables, and that those who do will soon see the advantage of the new departure. One reason of the success of French restaurants in California is doubtless the fact that they supply wine to all comers.

So far as temperance is concerned, we believe that it would be promoted by the general use of wine at table. This would certainly lessen the drinking of whisky at bars. It is a great mistake to suppose that the practice of drinking wine at table induces what is called an "appetite for liquor." Nothing could be farther from the fact. In proof of this, we need only refer to the well-known sobriety of the French and Italians with whom the use of wine is universal.—Sacramento Bee.

A HINT.

"Every person who by seine or any other means shall catch the young of fish of any species, and who shall not return the same to the water immediately and alive is guilty of a misdemeanor, and is punishable by a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $300." This paragraph is published by way of a hint to those persons who have of late been taking young fish by the thousands by means of a dip net. Reference is had not to Indians or Chinamen but to white men whose names are known.

THE WYOMING MASSACRE.

The Responsibilities of the United States Government in the Case.

Ex-Consul Henderson Interviewed.

The above unfortunate affair having created considerable discussion in the newspapers as to the responsibilities of the United States Government in the case, an INDEX-TRIBUNE reporter sought out J. J. Henderson, for many years in the Consular Service in China and at one time a prominent attorney in that country, to learn his views in regard to the matter. The gentleman was found in his office and after a few preliminary remarks, the following interview bearing on the subject was had:

Reporter—During your long residence in China, Mr. Henderson, and as a lawyer, you must have become familiar with such an international question as the Wyoming massacre presents. That being so, what is your opinion as to the responsibility of the Federal Government for indemnity in this case?

Mr. Henderson—Well, where the Government maintains in any given place a police force adequate for the protection of persons and property, in ordinary times of peace, and affords all persons the equal protection of the laws, it is deemed to have performed its whole duty, and would not admit its responsibility for indemnity. Refusal or neglect to afford additional protection to any class after a knowledge of a deficient police force, or of unusual danger, or a refusal or neglect to pursue and punish parties guilty of atrocities already committed, would constitute grounds for a claim of indemnity for subsequent atrocities, or a charge of bad faith on the part of the Government, as the case might be. It is on this principle that claims for Indian depredations, and for injuries received in times of insurrection, are usually paid by the United States, and that the Chinese Government has been held responsible for injuries to foreigners of various nationalities at different times in China. In all these latter cases I believe there has been good grounds for holding the officials of the Chinese Government guilty, either of collusion with the mobs perpetrating outrages, or of refusing or neglecting to adopt timely preventive measures, or of a failure to pursue and punish the guilty; and in all these cases there was probably a deficient police for any purpose. Article III, Treaty of Peking of 1880, prescribes the duty of the United States in this matter. It reads thus: "If Chinese laborers, or Chinese of any other class, now either permanently or temporarily residing in the territory of the United States, meet with ill treatment at the hands of any other persons, the Government of the United States will exert all its power to devise measures for their protection and to secure to them the same rights, privileges, immunities, and exemptions as may be enjoyed by the citizens or subjects of the most favored nation, and to which they are entitled by treaty."

Rep.—Do you think, Mr. Henderson, that the uprising in Wyoming was the outcome of the lax manner in which the Chinese Restriction Act has been enforced?

Mr. H.—I do not. I am satisfied that the Wyoming affair is not an outburst of race prejudice, for in all probability the same thing would have happened if a gang of workmen of any other race had taken the place of the striking miners under the same circumstances. The most terrible rows are continually occurring in China between different gangs of workmen from similar causes. Of course the Government indemnifies no one injured or killed in these rows, no matter how defective the police may be.

Rep.—As many Chinese have been smuggled into the country since the Restriction Act went into effect, it is possible some of the victims of the Wyoming tragedy were there without a right to be. Would such be entitled to consideration with reference to damages?

Mr. H.—I think not, and I may add that to prevent the evasion of the act, all Chinese should be required to take out passports, be registered and numbered and renew this annually or when they change residence. When found without a proper passport and certificate of registration, they should be sent out of the country.

SENATOR WM. M. GWIN died in New York on the 9th inst., at the ripe age of 80 years. He commenced public life as Secretary to President Jackson. He came to California at an early day, and held many important positions of trust. He was a man of great intellectual powers and did much to shape the destines of this State.

THE "Russian River Flag" has changed hands. It is now owned and edited by Mr. R. F. Eagle. The "Flag" has always been a neat and newsy paper and we are sure Mr. Eagle will keep up its standard of excellence.

The question that agitates our grape-growers is; "What is to be the price for grapes?"

The Union Hotel is doing a rushing business. Don't forget that this hotel is becoming more popular every day. *

Rev. E. H. King has been re-appointed by the Methodist Conference, recently held in Stockton, to the Vallejo and Napa Circuit.

The Union Hotel is becoming quite a resort for city visitors to Sonoma. The fame of this hotel is becoming well known to travelers and pleasure seekers. *

Rev. E. H. King will preach in the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday (to-morrow), both morning and evening. All are cordially invited.

Don't forget the grand Fancy Jockey Cap Invitation Party to be given at Union Hall, Thursday, October 1st, by Prof. Marsden and pupils. *

Wm. Pickett has on his place near town grape vines of the Black Hamburg variety which, singular to relate, will produce four crops this season.

Arthur Hughes, General Manager of the Sonoma Valley and San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad Companies, is lying at the point of death in San Francisco.

Sonoma is to have two brass bands. A new one has been recently started composed of fifteen pieces, the members being all boys. They are being instructed by Prof. Mayer.

The Admission Day celebration in Santa Rosa last Wednesday, was a grand success. Over 15,000 people viewed the procession which is described as being very imposing. Almost every town in the State was represented by the Native Sons.

Also, plain and fancy sewing done with neatness and dispatch. Ladies wishing work done in Mrs. Golden's line are invited to give her a call. +

Our Western people are liable to be laid low by malarial fevers, when breaking up new lands. The folks in the East are also complaining of fevers, chills, and agues, arising from decaying vegetable matter and imperfect drainage. For either East or West the best remedy is Ayer's Ague Cure.

The Dramatic Club recently formed in this place by a number of our society young ladies and gentlemen are making preparations to give an entertainment some time next month. The club was organized for intellectual and social purposes, it being the aim of its members to give a series of entertainments for worthy objects.

The Sonoma Valley Railroad will make a reduction in its regular rates to and from San Francisco on Sept. 19th, to enable our people to attend the Mechanics' Fair. Round trip tickets will be sold on that day at $1.25 from Sonoma and $1.75 from Glen Ellen. These tickets will be good up to and including the 21st inst., and will also entitle holders to admission to the Fair.

A Pleasant Surprise Party.

One of the most delightful surprise parties of the season was given to Mr. Fred. Duhring Jr., at the residence of his parents, on Friday evening of last week. The occasion was the anniversary of the birth of the young gentleman, who was born in the identical house where the reception was held, twenty-three years ago. He is a student of the State University and as he will return to that institution of learning to resume his studies next Tuesday, his many friends in Sonoma took the above means of showing their friendship and appreciation of his many good qualities before his departure.

At an early hour the guests commenced to assemble and by nine o'clock the elegant and spacious parlors of the Duhring residence were filled with a select company of the friends of the family. The evening was chiefly devoted to dancing, excellent music being furnished by Prof. Girardi, and J. J. Wystyrk acting as floor manager. Supper was served at midnight. At the banquet board toasts were given and responded to and good cheer reigned supreme. Supper over dancing was renewed and kept up till near morning, when the guests departed with many expressions of a long life of health and happiness to the recipient of their attentions. The following ladies and gentlemen were present:

Senator and Mrs. Enos, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Mullin, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weems, Mr. and Mrs. F. Duhring, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Granice, Mr. and Mrs. F. Clewe, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Remains of J. Manion Found.

[Santa Rosa Democrat, Sept. 4.]

On Thursday morning C. H. Foster and P. T. Brown left their homes in Bennett Valley to hunt deer, leaving early in the morning. About eleven o'clock, while on William Manion's ranch on Bennett Mountain beside an oak tree near the summit, they came across the ghastly remains of a human being, which they at once recognized as that of Jefferson Manion. The corpse was lying on one side of the oak tree and the shotgun on the other. Jefferson Manion left home on the morning of August 22d, and took a shotgun with him, stating that he was going to a corn patch to pull some suckers for the calves and remarking that he expected to kill a rabbit before he returned. Since that time his anguish-stricken parents have been searching everywhere for him. William Manion, his father, heard the other day that Jeff. had been seen in Eureka, Humboldt county, California, and left here on Wednesday morning to find him, going in a spring wagon by way of Ukiah. A dispatch was sent to Ukiah on Thursday to intercept him.

Coroner King arrived from Petaluma early in the afternoon, summoned a jury which viewed the remains, which were then placed in a coffin and carried from the almost inaccessible place where they were found and conveyed to the Yulupe Vineyard in Bennett Valley, where the testimony was taken. This was necessarily brief, and the jury rendered a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death from a gunshot wound self inflicted by means of a pistol, while in a condition of mental abberation, probably on the same day that he left home.

The remains were lying face downward with the pistol beneath. On the stock of the shotgun were scratched with a penknife the words, "Good-bye to all, God bless mother. To W. H. Manion."

Jefferson Davis Manion was a native of this State, and was in the twenty-fourth year of his age.

Failed to Agree.

Charles Reichman, charged with malicious mischief in cutting a mule, the property of Dresel & Blankenburg, was tried in Justice Breitenbach's court last Saturday. The jury, after listening to the testimony and the arguments of counsel, could not agree upon a verdict—seven being for conviction and five for acquittal. They were thereupon relieved from further duty and the Judge, considering it doubtful if a conviction could be had and not caring to subject our business men to the trouble of acting as jurors in a retrial of the case, discharged the prisoner.

Our English Cousins.

LONDON.—In a recent trade-mark suit it was shown by sworn evidence that over nine million bottles of St. Jacobs Oil had been sold here during the past few years. Leading chemists certify that the sale of this remedy exceeds that of all others; and that it is being recognized as the best pain-cure ever discovered. In serious rheumatism it has accomplished astonishing results.

Sonoma County's Display at the Louisville Exposition.

A special Louisville correspondent of the "Chronicle," in speaking of the California display at the Exposition has this to say in regard to Sonoma county's exhibit:

"Beginning near the main aisle, which leads from Music Hall to the Art Gallery, Sonoma county is first on the list of displays. The exhibits are arranged in a cubic frame with a pyramid rising from the center, and nearly all were collected by the Pomona Grange. An exception is the superb display of wine, which was mainly contributed by J. H. Drummond of Glen Ellen. The bottles are arranged on the pyramid and present a strikingly handsome appearance. The collection of canned fruits is superb and was sent by the Petaluma Packing Company. On the four corners rise little five-sided pyramids. Several varieties of wheat are arranged on the first; on the second, oats; and grasses and tree growths on the two others. On the first side of the frame are placed samples of grain and the different kinds of soil arranged in small bottles. Dried fruits, nuts, mineral waters and fruits in glass jars take up two more, while the last are decorated with 114 varieties of wine grapes contributed by J. H. Drummond. The whole is handsomely decorated with pampas blooms. These by the way, are placed with fine effect over all the other exhibits.

Closed Its Labors.

The Teachers' Institute for Sonoma county, which was in session last week in Santa Rosa, closed its labors on Friday of last week. Before adjourning the following resolutions were passed:

WHEREAS, The teachers of Sonoma county, assembled in their annual Institute, in accordance with the School Laws of our State and,

WHEREAS, The duties incumbent upon such bodies having been successfully performed, thereby promoting the interests of all concerned therefore, be it,

Resolved, That the thanks of the Institute be extended to Professor Cook, of the University, for his very able lecture on English, to Dr. T. H. B. Anderson of Colusa, and to Dr. Jewell of San Francisco.

Resolved, That in our Superintendent, Prof. Smyth, and in our conductors, Profs. Hutton, Ennis, Grove, Mrs. Martin, Miss Dabney and Miss A. Ray Detrick, we recognize earnest, able and successful teachers, and that we take this means of expressing our appreciation of their efforts.

Resolved, That we commend the action of the County Superintendent and the Institute Committee for securing a pleasant and centrally located hall for the evenings' entertainments.

Resolved, That we thank the Committee on Music, and through them the ladies and gentlemen of Santa Rosa for the excellent music with which we have been entertained.

Resolved, That we thank the ladies and gentlemen of the Institute and others who have favored us with readings, recitations and essays.

Resolved, That our hearty thanks be tendered to the good people of Santa Rosa, for their kind reception and the interest they have manifested in our meetings, and to the Press for their kind criticisms.

The next annual session of the Teachers' Institute will be held in Petaluma.

The Price of Grapes.

[S. F. Merchant.]

As is customary every year there is considerable difficulty in obtaining reliable and accurate information as to the prices paid for grapes. We believe that the lowest prices will be touched in the South where the crops are more plentiful and have been less affected by disease. Some of the wine-makers in the North have been offering $10, $12 and $15 per ton as a general thing, and in one district where grape growers made contracts months ago to sell at $22.50 they were considered to have done remarkably well. However, in this same district, offers are now being made to purchase grapes at $26—but there are no sellers at that figure. In those sections where a few short-sighted wine makers have refused to pay more than $15 per ton, most beneficial results will ensue. The grape growers who have hitherto not made their own wine, are now hastening to make all necessary preparations to do so. As a rule the small wine makers will produce a better grade of wines than those whose business is conducted on a more extensive scale. With a certainty of a shortage of 5,000,000 gallons, as compared with the vintage of 1884, and a prospect of a superior quality of wines and the continued increase in consumption, prices should rule higher than they have done of late.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Corbaly have been visiting friends in Healdsburg the past week.

Miss Maggie Graham and Thos. R. Graham of Eureka, Humboldt county, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Mullin.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

MONDAY, September 7, 1885.

The Board of Supervisors in and for the county of Sonoma, met in regular monthly session at their rooms in the Court House in Santa Rosa, on Monday at 9 A. M. Present: Supervisors Ellis, O'Hara and Houser.

A recess was then had until 10:30 A. M., to enable the other members to be present. At this hour the Board re-convened, Messrs. Allen and Coulter having arrived, all the members were present.

The minutes of the last session were read and approved.

Supervisor Houser was granted leave of absence for the remainder of the day.

The following report was filed:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Sonoma county: Your committee appointed to appear before the State Board of Equalization, beg leave respectfully to report that we responded to the notice of said State Board, obtained a copy of the data on which said Board founded its judgement relative to our assessment, and obtained a postponement of the hearing in the matter until the 14th inst., when the said Board will give us a further hearing. Very respectfully submitted.

S. T. COULTER,
JOHN O'HARA,
G. W. LEWIS,
Committee.

SANTA ROSA, September 7, 1885.

A petition from a number of residents of Bodega township, asking for a change in the McGuire road in that township was received. It was represented that the proposed change would cause the removal of all the gates on that road, giving those interested a better road, thirty feet in width, the road to be built by Messrs. Lancel and DeCarley constructing a bridge. Several transfers of property will ensue, which will greatly convenience those persons residing along the road. The road to be fenced on each side of the road.

On motion of Mr. Coulter, the motion was granted as soon as the work set forth in the petition would be completed to the satisfaction of the Road Overseer of that township.

At 11:55 the Board took a recess until 1 P. M.

The Board re-convened at 1 P. M. all the members being present as at the forenoon session.

The matter of the petition of Mrs. E. Joy, to maintain a gate on the public road leading from Coleman Valley to Bodega Corners, next came regularly up for hearing. It was signed by twelve persons.

A protest signed by thirty persons, was also read.

An additional petition signed by forty-four persons, asking the Board to give the matter of the petition of Mrs. Joy attention, and asking that their names be added to the petition was also received.

The Board after receiving and reading other petitions and protests in the matter and listening to arguments, pro and con from interested parties, on motion of Mr. Coulter, denied the petition.

M. L. McDonald appeared before the Board on behalf of the Santa Rosa Water Works Company, and stated that a previous meeting, a bill for a certain amount was presented, which they deemed just and right, and which was cut down to such an extent as to practically reject it, as the company refused to accept it and he thought the company should have been consulted in the matter.

Considerable discussion followed in regard to the charges of the company and also as to the feasibility of sinking an artesian well for the use of the county, but nothing definite was arrived at.

A petition was received from the residents of Mendocino township, asking for the erection of a bridge across Dry Creek, at Lambert's crossing, as during the winter months many are cut off from the outside, having no feasible means of communication. It was signed by 142 persons.

G. W. Burris, Road Overseer, appeared and spoke of the necessity of the erection of this bridge.

W. T. Allen also urged the necessity of the bridge. He has lived there thirty-two years, and has many times been cut off from all possible access, except by a long detour. He thought they needed a bridge there more than at any other portion of the county.

J. L. Bell also spoke to the same end, and spoke of the location as a fine one, 170 feet across with bed rock sloping to the top of the banks. He thought the bridge could be built as cheaply as the one which was constructed at the Broad crossing. This bridge cost $1,800. They were shut in there at all times when the water was up. If they could be provided with a direct road to Healdsburg they would be satisfied, but this would cost a great deal more than the bridge.

CLOVERDALE HAPPENINGS.

[Pacific Sentinel.]

Wine making is in full blast.

The hills are hazy from the forest fires.

In Ukiah valley, Chinamen are picking hops as low as 75 cents per hundred. White pickers get one cent per pound.

Russian river is dry for long stretches in the channel. At the Lakeport Ford there is not a drop of water for 100 feet on either side in the bed of the river. Above the bridge the stream is yet running; but it then sinks.

Another fatal gunning accident occurred in the mountains in the Squaw creek country, on the Lakeport toll road about 14 miles northeast of this place, by which a young man residing near Healdsburg named Lincoln Odell lost his life last Thursday morning. The body was brought to this place Thursday night and Acting Coroner Justice Morgan held an inquest. The testimony taken showed that the young man and his brother Peter were out hunting about 100 yards apart, deceased commenced firing at some deer when, by some means or other, he accidentally shot himself and was found shortly after by Peter lying face downward and lifeless.

HEALDSBURG NOTES.

[Enterprise.]

A two-horse load of watermelons sold on our streets Friday for $1.66.

The forest fire of last week did considerable damage to many stock ranches.

A child of Leopold Dotta's, about two years old, suffered a dislocation of the shoulder last week, caused by the mother picking it up by the arm. Dr. Schenck reduced the dislocation and reports the baby as getting on nicely.

Joseph Collins was arrested near the bridge on Russian River, Monday night. The charge was being drunk. Collins said he had a few drinks of wine with the Indians on that night. He said he had plenty of wine. The Marshal arrested him and brought him before the Recorder who fined him $6 and costs.

About 2 A. M. Friday, the bell gave alarm of a fire in Healdsburg. The fire company promptly repaired to the locality but found that it had been extinguished by the application of a few buckets of water by Mr. Ward. It had been discovered by his wife and his promptness saved a serious conflagration. It was evidently the work of an incendiary.

Last Monday, at the mouth of Russian Gulch, the cook of the schooner "Haskins," a man named Johnson, appeared on deck and calling out to the first mate "I am dying," jumped overboard. His body was not seen afterwards although a thorough search was made. It is said that last week, while in San Francisco, Johnson had some trouble with his wife and it is supposed that the rash act was the result of the quarrel.

Wednesday last Samuel Meyer assigned to John D. Hassett all his property, real and personal, stock of merchandise, notes and accounts, in trust for the benefit of his creditors, which we learn represent some $35,000. Assets claimed by assignor aggregate $40,000 or thereabouts. The prevailing opinion in business circles is that the failure is honest, and results from wheat speculations two years ago from which assignor has not yet recovered. That combined with advances made to "Hop men" and the paralyzed markets for such stuff, doubtless contributed to the unfortunate results here chronicled. Assignee's bond fixed at $30,800 which has been approved by one of the judges of the Superior Court and filed in the office of the County Recorder.

James Finlayson's large winery is now ready for the wine press to commence the crushing of grapes, and he expects to begin receiving grapes next Tuesday. Mr. Finlayson has added thirty-two 3000 gallon and sixteen 2200 gallon tanks to his former capacity and has now storage room for 1600 tons of grapes, and has offered to engage the present crop at $7.00 for the lower grades, such as Mission, Black Hamburgs, Malvoise and Burgers, and $14 for Zinfandel and Riselings as well as other best varieties.

SOME QUEER BUT GENUINE EPITAPHS.

"Beneath this stone our baby lies,
It neither cries nor hollers:
It lived but one-and-twenty days,
And cost us twenty dollars."

"Here lies the body of poor Charles Lamb, Killed by a tree that fell slap-bang."

"Here lies old Jones,
Who all his life collected bones,
Till death, that grim and bony spectre,
That all-amassing bone-collector,
Boned old Jones, so neat and tidy,
That here he lies all 'bona fide.'"

"Here lies the body of Deborah Dent,
She kicked up her heels and away she went."

"Here lies the body of Margaret Sexton,
Who pleased many a man but never vexed one—
Not like the woman who lies under the next stone."

FAIR PLAY IF IT COST A LEG.

"Git up!"

It was in 1864, down in front of Grant's army, and I was a mile or so outside of the Union pickets, having been on a scout. In making my way back I had been followed pretty closely by half a dozen Confederates, and had eluded them by hiding in a thicket. After an hour's rest I was creeping along on hands and knees toward the nearest field fence, when the above command reached my ears and a "Reb" stepped in view from behind a large tree. "Yank, in course?" he queried, as he looked me over, holding his carbine ready for a shot. I nodded in the affirmative. "How are you heeled?" I had a navy revolver in my belt and showed it to him. He threw down his carbine, drew a navy from his own belt, and coming quite close he said: "Yank, one of us has got to die! A week ago some of you 'uns set the cabin afire and turned my poor old mother out into the fields to take sick and die. I swore on her grave that I would kill the first Yank I could draw bead on, and you're my meat!"

"Are you going to shoot down a prisoner in cold blood?"

"That' ain't Silas Curtis—not much! It's ten paces—one—two—three—fire. You shall have fair play."

'You mean we shall fight a duel.'

'Sorter one, I expect you'll shoot at me and miss, and I'll shoot at you and put a ball into your head. I'm no bushwhacker to shoot a man down without a show, but I'm dead certain to kill you all the same.' We backed away from each other. The woods were fairly open, and when we had thirty feet between us there was no obstruction to deflect a bullet or annoy the eye.

'All ready, Yank?'

'Yes.'

'I'll be fair. You may do the counting. Good-bye to you, for I'm a dead shot.'

'One—two—three—fire.'

The two pistols made one report, but as the noise filled my ears I went down. I was bewildered, half unconscious, but realized that I was hurt.

"Shoo, now, but I just raked his scalp!" I heard the man say as he bent over me. 'Say Yank we must have another shot. You cut powerful close to my ear, and maybe I dodged a bit. Come, fair play, ye know.'

I tried to rise up, but fell back, and at that moment two bushwackers pushed out of the woods and came running up. I then heard loud talking, oaths, threats, and a bullet from a pistol tore through the cloth on my shoulder. Then I must have fainted, for the next thing that I remember was of being carried on the man's back through the woods. When he felt me moving he laid me down and asked:

'Say, Yank, how far is it to your lines?'

'About a mile from where we fought.'

'Straight north?'

'Yes.'

'Because those bushwhackers was bent on killing you, and to see fair play, I had to plant 'em both. Reckon I hain't no more business in the Confederacy after this. Reckon Uncle Sam won't be any wuss on me nor Jeff Davis. Yank, kin ye hang to my neck?'

'Yes.'

'All right. Keep this 'ere handkerchief sorter waving as a signal to the pickets, and I'll carry ye safe as an ambulance." And clinging to the back of the man who had thirsted for my blood, I was soon inside the lines and Sam was explaining to the pickets:

'No I hain't no deserter. I've been sorter driven in here because Sile Curtis will see fair play if it takes a leg.'

'Do I love George,' mused Clara, softly, 'or is it simply a sister's affection that I feel for——"

Just then Bobby burst noisily into the room and interrupted her sweet meditations.

'Get out of here, you little brat!' she shouted, and seizing him by the arm she shot him through the door.

'Ah, no,' she sighed, as she resumed her interrupted train of thought. 'My love for George is not a sister's love. It is sweeter, purer, higher and holier.'

HOW THEY MADE IT UP.

They had been enemies for three long years. They passed each other on the street with stern faces, their wives made fun of each other's dresses, and the children climbed up on the back fence and called each other shoddy aristocrats. Oh, no, there was no dove of peace around there, and lots of people predicted that a case of assassination would grow out of it.

Last evening the whole neighborhood was astonished beyond measure. These two families who had thirsted for each other's scalps, were seen in sweet convention on the lawn. The men exchanged cigars, the women admired each others latest purchase, and the blessed little children hugged each other all over the grass.

How did the change come about? Well, neither man ever owned a horse in his life, and neither knew a case of spavin from a blooming instance of poll-evil. Jones decided, however, to buy a horse. He was looking one over at his hitching-post, when Smith came along. In a moment of forgetfulness Jones remarked:

"Say, Smith, you know all about a horse. How old is this animal?"

In the jerk of a comet's tail, rancor and bitterness were forgotten. The flattery hit Smith plumb-centre and ripped all the buttons off his pent-up soul. He obeyed the request, pointed out all the ring-bones, stiff knees, and splints, and advised Jones not to buy. They went off arm in arm, and the dove of peace now sits on the house-tops and warbles his joyous little soul up to high G.—Detroit Free Press.

ON WHICH SIDE TO SLEEP.

The most general method of lying, perhaps, is on the right side; and this appears to be also the most natural method, for many persons object to lying upon the side of the heart which, it has been more than once asserted, should have free action during sleep. Nevertheless the statements of Dr. Delaunay, a French physician, hardly harmonize with this opinion. When one sleeps upon the right side, that is to say, upon the right side of the brain, one's dreams have marked and rather unpleasant characteristics. These characteristics, however, are essentially those which enter into the popular definition of dreams. One's dreams are then apt to be illogical, absurd, childish, uncertain, incoherent, full of vivacity and exaggeration. Dreams which come from sleeping on the right side are, in short, simple deceptions. They bring to mind very old and faint remembrances, and they are often accompanied by nightmares. Dr. Delauny points out that sleepers frequently compose verse or rhymetical language while they are lying on the right side. This verse, though at times correct enough, is absolutely without sense. The moral faculties are then at work, but the intellectual faculties are absent.

On the other hand, when a person slumbers on his left brain, his dreams are not only less absurd, but they may also be intelligent. They are, as a rule, concerned with recent things, not with reminiscences. And, since the faculty of articulated language is found in the left side, the words uttered during such dreams are frequently comprehensible.

No matter how early the boys take hold of politics, they seem to understand the business fairly well. Jimmy Tuffboy came into the house and proceeded to unload from his pockets various articles of juvenile property.

'Where did you get all those things, Jimmy?' inquired she.

'I've won a victory, ma, and I'm scooping in the spoils.'

'But that is not in accordance with Civil Service Reform, my boy.'

'You betch yer life it ain't, but I'm a hungry and thirsty crowd, I am, and when I clean out a crowd o' fellers I'm a Jacksonian every time. Give us a box to put these things in.'

He got the box. It was on his left ear.—Hartford Post.

"I feel like sounding its praise on the housetops.
"HON. CHAS. A. SUMNER."

WON'T BLISTER.—Caloric Vita Oil takes the place of all pain killing lotions or liniments, poultices or blisters, and while its penetrating, heating, healing and vital action is tenfold more powerful than either, it will not chafe or blister.

Dr. J. Winchester, Columbia, Cal., says: "Have used Vita Oil with the most benficial results; can endorse without hesitation your claim. As a family remedy for the relief of pain it has no equal in the world. In our household it has become indispensable."

"With a thankful heart I acknowledge the great merit of Dr. Smith's Caloric Vita Oil. I had suffered over 30 years with Bronchitis and was seriously threatened with lung disease. I had tried all remedies and all climates with occasional temporary relief, but no cure. The use of two small bottles made me a sound man.
"A BANK OFFICER."

A prominent druggist in San Francisco:—"We hazard nothing in saying it is the best pain curer and healing remedy ever used or known. It acts quickly, promptly and certainly in relieving pain. Hundreds of sufferers have been relieved by it, to the wonder of thousands of their friends. Its sales have doubled nearly every month."

"It will do the heaviest work of any medicine I ever handled, and quick, too."
A PHYSICIAN.

One hundred and thirty-six wholesale and retail druggists in San Francisco and Oakland are selling Caloric Vita Oil, and not a single complaint has ever reached us.

"I am 72. Had suffered over 40 years with rheumatism, but Dr. Smith's Caloric Vita Oil cured me after every known remedy failed.
"AN OLD VETERAN."

All that is asked for Vita Oil is a single trial. Its great merit for the relief of pain can never be known except by the sufferer who has tried it.

PHYSICAL SPORTS.—Is pedestrians, gymnasts, ball-players, oarsmen and those engaged in the rougher pastimes (sports) would prevent soreness, lameness, contraction of the muscles, or other injuries received from the nature of their calling, they should rub freely with Caloric Vita Oil. No athlete ever used it but was ready and willing to sound its praise.

Full directions for using Vita Oil in a variety of diseases accompany each bottle.

Vita Oil is to be had of all leading druggists in San Francisco and generally throughout the Pacific Coast, and by many retail dealers where there is no druggist. It will soon be found indispensable in every family. Price 50 cents and $1 per bottle.

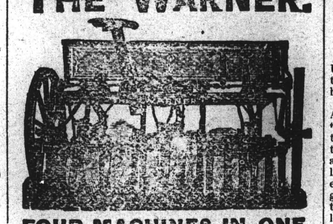
THE WARNER.



FOUR MACHINES IN ONE.

A Broadcast Seeder; A Field Cultivator and Harrow; A Two-Horse Corn Cultivator, and a One-Horse Corn Cultivator.

Each one of these above named implements, combined in the one represented in the illustration, is an admirable implement for the purpose intended, combining more valuable features than any other Sulky Harrow and worth twice as much. Its Superiority also over any of the so-called "Floating, Spring-Tooth Harrows" is so great that no farmer can afford to buy the latter to save a few dollars difference in cost. The WARNER is far more economical than such. Farmers are respectfully urged to examine the Warner Sulky Spring-Tooth Harrow and Seeder before being induced to purchase any other and inferior substitute for it. ☞ Send for illustrated Descriptive Circulars and Price List.
